

Reflections on My Erasmus Staff Mobility Experience

Goodbye Dinner with Colleagues Turned Friends on My Last Day.

Embarking on an Erasmus staff mobility program was an enriching experience that broadened my horizons both personally and professionally. Moving to Spain allowed me to collaborate in a new cultural context and learn from the research findings of two prestigious research groups. The exchange of ideas and expertise in a cross-cultural context enhanced my skill sets and also facilitated professional networking and building meaningful connections with amazing people that I wouldn't have the chance to know otherwise. Completing our collaborative projects successfully was incredibly rewarding, and I encourage others to take advantage of the opportunity to participate in Erasmus staff mobility programs. I'm grateful for the generous grant and to the Erasmus office staff for facilitating my mobility, providing an opportunity for such an outstanding experience and project success.
